CONTENTS

ISSUE #223
FEBRUARY 2014

CULTURE

- 14 TRENDS: Irma Boom's completely ink-free Chanel book celebrates quiet design, while 123klan shouts a little louder with its graffiti-inspired streetwear pack
- 18 PEOPLE: We chat to former design lecturer David Litchfield, now a full-time freelancer who practises what he once preached – and explore Radio's studio, which was once used as a freezing unit for fish
- 20 PLACES: A tour of Moscow's creative hotspots, courtesy of artist Dmitri Aske – aka Sicksystems
- 22 EVENTS: We report from Beyond Tellerrand's Play & Make in Düsseldorf, and look forward to OFFF 2014

INSIGHT

- 28 PROTECT YOUR IDEAS: Vince Frost and his media lawyer debate the thorny issue of IP protection in his Sydney studio – including an exclusive video
- 32 LEFT OUT IN THE COLD: A cautionary tale from freelancer Corey Holms, for whom a string of late-paid invoices caused a financial black hole
- 34 WORKING HARD, FOR FREE: D&AD President Laura Jordan-Bambach argues that even entry-level designers deserve a respectable wage

PROJECTS

- 84 PURE IMAGINATION: Nexus Productions reveals how it designed an intricate living machine to explore the origins of Bombay Sapphire gin
- 91 UNDER THE SEA: How Good Wives and Warriors used blackboard paint to transform a huge blank wall into a fascinating ocean-themed mural
- 94 BOX OF TRICKS: Behind-the-scenes on Box, a promo video that combined robots, performers and projection-mapping to create a stunning promo video with no added special effects
