

Bloomberg Businessweek

SCHOLASTIC COLLEGE
LIBRARY
AUG 5 2016

Mark Zuckerberg wants to put an Oculus on all 1.7 billion Facebook users p38

Bloomberg Businessweek

August 1 — August 7, 2016

Cover Trail

How the cover gets made

| | |
|--|----|
| Opening Remarks A critical attempt at land restitution in Colombia after a 50-year civil war | 6 |
| Bloomberg View NATO is not a business deal • Remember, free trade is antipoverty | 8 |
| Movers ▲ A solar-powered plane circles the globe ▼ Russia 1, Debbie Wasserman Schultz 0 | 11 |
| Global Economics | |
| A month after Brexit, the U.K. starts fumbling for a hangover cure | 12 |
| Syrian refugees have found shelter in Germany. Finding jobs there is another story | 14 |
| A territorial dispute in the South China Sea sends ripples to U.S. shores | 14 |
| Billions of dollars missing in Malaysia? No biggie | 16 |
| Companies/Industries | |
| A black man made it to the Oval Office, but the corner office is just about out of reach | 18 |
| Why banned factories are still sending drugs to the U.S. | 19 |
| Japan's aging retailers court Vietnam's young shoppers | 20 |
| Strategy: With the Yahoo! web businesses, Verizon triples its ad market | 21 |
| Politics/Policy | |
| Does anyone need round-the-clock local news? Campaign ad makers do | 22 |
| The unheeded warning about the DNC's lax cybersecurity | 23 |
| A Republican feud in the Big First congressional district of Kansas | 24 |
| Hidden Hand: Victor Fleischer, the law professor trying to close tax loopholes in the U.S. Senate | 25 |
| Technology | |
| Silicon Berlin brings new life to the death strip | 26 |
| Facing rising competition, drone maker DJI has a plan to keep sales aloft | 28 |
| Indian e-tailer Flipkart struggles to deliver as Amazon makes inroads in its backyard | 29 |
| Innovation: Jukedeck songwriting software may not be Mozart. But Mozart isn't scoring your film for $10 | 30 |
| Markets/Finance | |
| Eight years after the meltdown, life on Wall Street is kind of a yawn | 33 |
| Zero-down financing for multimillion-dollar Silicon Valley homes. What could go wrong? | 34 |
| Citigroup sheds 69 million customers. Sometimes less is more | 35 |
| Loaning once, loaning twice, loaned! Auction houses will play bank for big collectors | 36 |
| Features | |
| Oculus Shift Virtual reality leads Facebook into another universe: Hardware | 38 |
| Bash the Bankers The one thing Dems and the GOP seem to agree on | 44 |
| Crying Game Scenes from an historic Democratic National Convention | 46 |
| Cuba Libre Did aides to the law-and-order candidate violate the embargo? | 50 |
| Olympic Sewer The story of Guanabara Bay is one of ineptitude, graft, and murder | 54 |
| Etc. | |
| What I Wear to Work: Rio 2016 | 61 |
| Team USA's runners, rowers, boxers, and gymnasts on their shoes, suits, gloves, and "drag queen makeup" | 62 |
| How Did I Get Here? Lisa Baird, the top marketer for Team USA, keeps her eye on the athletes, not the medals | 72 |

1

"The cover is on Facebook's plan for Oculus. They hope to one day put one in the hands of all their users."

"Why?"

"They believe it could be the future of social media."

"So rather than just looking at a photo of my aspirational avocado toast, people would actually feel like they're sitting at a restaurant, having a fully immersive 3D experience of the aspirational avocado toast?"

"They haven't specified how it would incorporate social media or what the experience of avocado toast would be like."

"Sounds like they have a lot of work to do. Can we shoot Zuckerberg wearing an Oculus floating on a virtual beach?"

"There's no harm in asking."

(To Facebook)

"Hello. We'd love to shoot Mark for the cover.... Is there a concept? Yes. He'd be wearing an Oculus, floating on a virtual beach—"
(They hang up.)

"Sigh. Thank God for Photoshop."

