6 EDITOR'S NOTE

Take a Road Trip

This issue's special feature section is a map to Everything Worth Knowing.

7 INBOX

Readers comment on wearable tech and adjusting to an empty nest.

9 THE CRUX

Scientists sing the praises of an unlikely food source; learn about the connection between neurotics and Brexit; kids are having fun — but also getting hurt — while riding a popular two-wheeled toy; and more.

20 VITAL SIGNS

Eye of the Beholder

A child's history of bone fractures leads pediatricians to a disturbing conclusion. BY AMITHA KALAICHANDRAN

24 NOTES FROM EARTH

The Salamander Army

You'll never hear or see them, but they keep forest ecosystems strong. BY GEOFFREY GILLER

90 PROGNOSIS

A Double Whammy

Chemical exposure could play a role in the development of non-alcoholic fatty liver disease. BY RACHEL CERNANSKY

77 OUT THERE: BONUS ASTRONOMY SECTION

Learn how Chilean observatories play a five-star role in education and outreach, and take a tour of the nonexistent worlds that astronomers have thought they've discovered over the years.

Read about the hidden lives of salamanders and their critical role in nature's food web on page 24.

94 HISTORY LESSONS

Cracking Listeria's Secrets

Scientists are learning more about a hardy microbe that can live years in soil and water, survive deep freezes, and sometimes kill humans. BY CLAIRE PANOSIAN DUNAVAN

98 20 THINGS YOU DIDN'T KNOW ABOUT ...

Ants

Some are slaveholders, others sip blood and a few jump backward like nobody's business. BY ASHLEY BRAUN
