A Word from the Editor

As summer ebbs away into autumn (even if Hong Kong hardly feels like it), we may be turning to more sedentary activities. Getting back from the mountains, or hiking trips can make us a bit lethargic this time of year, as we become used to less physical tasks such as school, work and the cultural season. But before we all slow down, this month's cover story is all about design for the body. That means, loosely, sport, exercise, health and a deliberately eclectic mashup of projects that involve athletes, doctors and more. As the sofa takes over from the lap pool, exercise your imagination. It won't cause a sweat.
