

TIME

Loading ...

Inside China's Great Firewall

Beijing already controls the Chinese Internet.
Now it wants the rest of the online world

BY HANNAH BEECH

Small vertical text on the left edge of the cover, including postal codes and distribution information for various countries like Canada, Mexico, and the U.S.

Cover Story

Online but Cut Off

A look behind China's Great Firewall and the 649 million Internet users living there By Hannah Beech p. 24

'At the end of the day, the party is more interested in control than innovation.'

ROBERT ATKINSON, president of the Information Technology & Innovation Foundation

Features

A photographer captures life in a Syrian city besieged by ISIS fighters

By Conal Urquhart p. 30

Aziz Ansari explores love in the digital age in his new book, Modern Romance

Romantic partners are now seemingly a swipe away. Can love survive a surplus of opportunities? A comedian investigates

By Aziz Ansari p. 36

Editor's Desk 4

Conversation 6

Verbatim 7

The Brief

Two murderers tunnel out of a New York prison 9

South Korea's MERS crisis and how health systems abet viral outbreaks 11

Jan Bremner on Turkey's elections, the U.S.'s egg shortage 12

Carly Fiorina fights to join the Republicans' top tier for 2016 14

Battle of Waterloo re-enactors 16

Apple's streaming-music play takes on Spotify 18

The View

James Poniewozik on the surfeit of quality TV 19

NASA tests its flying saucer 21

Why it can be risky to be risk-averse 21

Three ways to improve your memory 21

Former Goldman Sachs VP Greg Smith on why the U.S. needs simpler 401(k)s 22

Joe Klein on how Rand Paul has already shaped the 2016 U.S. campaign 23

Aryn Baker on Africa's youth unemployment 44

Time Off

Jurassic World reinvents the dinosaur; a mesmerizing Wolfpack 45

Sunscreens that live up to their claims 48

Jonathan Strange and Mr Norrell is adapted for TV 49

What to love and leave from this week in culture 50

Susanna Schrobendorff wishes her ex-husband a happy Father's Day 51

10 Questions with Bob Baffert, trainer of Triple Crown winner American Pharoah 52