

TIME

CRAZY TRAVEL.
CRAZY COSTS.
CRAZY STRESS.

HOW KID SPORTS TURNED PRO

BY SEAN
GREGORY

Melanie Barcenas, 9, of San Diego spends most weekends
competing for her travel team

TIME

VOL. 150, NO. 9 | 2017

- 2 | Conversation
- 4 | For the Record

The Brief

News from the U.S. and around the world

5 | President Trump shows two sides, but reveals his true one

6 | Emmanuel Macron's first 100 days

8 | Ian Bremmer: Why Nigeria's President needs to name a successor

9 | Remembering comedians Jerry Lewis and Dick Gregory

10 | Terrorist attacks across the Mediterranean threaten tourism

The View

ideas, opinion, innovations

15 | How Princess Diana's death, 20 years ago, changed Britain

17 | The American women who were elected before they could vote

18 | The fight to put up more statues of women

The Features

This Land Is Whose Land?

President Trump's review of U.S. national monuments has set off a bitter clash over public space and private rights By Katy Steinmetz 20

Americans in North Korea

Roughly 200 U.S. citizens live or work in North Korea. Now they have until Sept. 1 to get out By Elizabeth Dias 26

▣ The Kids' Sports Machine

Inside the booming business that is overwhelming American families By Sean Gregory 32

Time Off

What to watch, read, see and do

43 | The science behind songs that win the summer

46 | Movie reviews: Beach Rats and California Typewriter

48 | Jesmyn Ward's latest novel, Sing, Unburied, Sing, probes race in the South

51 | Joel Stein takes his liberal wife to a shooting range

52 | 8 Questions for tennis star Garbiñe Muguruza

King-Riley Owens, a top 9-year-old basketball player, at home in Los Angeles on Aug. 2

ON THE COVER AND ABOVE:
Photographs by Finlay MacKay
for TIME